

THE LOCAL NEWS.....

OF THE
CITY AND COUNTY

From Today's Daily.

Colin Timmons has gone to Los Angeles.

Cocino county has $115,000 in her treasury.

Walter Reese has gone to Phoenix on a business trip.

R. A. Talbot has gone to Pasadena to spend the holidays.

L. Greenwood came in from Copper Basin Saturday for a brief visit.

The Kraus-Taylor company will open its engagement in Prescott tonight.

Mrs. Bert Horton and child have returned from their visit to Los Angeles.

J. H. Mulreid has gone to Los Angeles to spend the holidays with relatives.

Miss Flora Mackay, sister of Mrs. J. W. Flinn, has gone to her home in Nova Scotia.

Geo. B. Upton left for the East on Saturday to purchase machinery for the Oro Grande mine.

R. R. Coleman was recently awarded a contract for railroad building in the southern part of the territory.

A. S. Haskell came in from Jerome on Saturday for a brief visit, returning to Jerome this morning.

Bert Johns returned yesterday to spend the holidays at home. He has been attending the territorial university.

The Methodist Sunday school will hold its Christmas tree exercises on Wednesday night in the Marina street church.

Geo. French, son of E. W. French, came up from Walnut Grove on Saturday to spend the holidays with his father.

Leave your order for carnations, violets, holly, mistletoe, etc., at Christmas trees and decorations at Wooster's book store.

The Santa Fe railroad company is obtaining water from Del Rio owing to the freezing of streams in the San Francisco mountains.

How do you like the improvements in the paper? Other improvements are still contemplated, among them being an increased telegraph route.

Rev. H. B. Long had good audience yesterday at his special Christmas services at the Methodist church. Special music was rendered by the choir.

F. Miss Alice M. Campbell has returned from Congress where she has been teaching school. She will spend the holidays with relatives and friends in Prescott.

Rev. A. M. Gibbons preached two eloquent Christmas sermons in the M. E. church yesterday to a large audience. The choir rendered some excellent special music, appropriate to the occasion also.

There is much alarm on the west coast of Mexico over the reported appearance of bubonic plague at Mazatlan. Local doctors assert that it is the true form of the Asiatic plague but the doctors of the British warship Grafton decided that it is something else. The governor of the state of Sinaloa is investigating.

A. N. Ingram of Poland is in town today.

Martin Tighe of Walker paid our city a visit today.

A physician was called last week to remove a corn from the foot of an archer in Phoenix.

Read the final piece of poetry in this issue about "how the young man was tempted and fell."

Mr. Hartwich, grand recorder of the A. O. U. W. of New York is in town today.

Dancing school every Tuesday night at Dougherty hall by Hickey. Gents 50 cents, ladies free for social. 12-22-23.

H. P. Ansell left for Phoenix last night and J. H. Emmert will leave for there tonight. Both are winter widowers and from Phoenix will go to Los Angeles to join their wives and spend the holidays.

W. F. Grove and J. M. Sharp were brought back from Colorado by A. A. Johns of the sheriff's office on requisition papers to answer to a charge of attempting to defraud the Val Verde Copper company.

The following official bonds were filed today each for the sum of $1000: A. J. McPherson, L. R. St. James and J. M. Wren, as justices of the peace; Fred Johnston, constable; J. B. Jolly, school superintendent.

J. S. Harney of Congress is in town for the first time in three years. He is much surprised at the progress Prescott has made since he left. He reports business in Congress as flourishing.

G. A. Bray received word today of the death of his sister, Miss Alice Bray, at their old home in Massachusetts. She had been in feeble health for some time but her death was unexpected and came as a surprise to Mr. Bray.

S. Watjen, clerk in the B. R. company, leaves shortly for St. Louis where he has accepted a position in a new situation. Many friends will regret the departure of Mr. Watjen and their best wishes will follow him in his new field of labor. He will be much missed in musical and social circles.

The following ticket, under the name of Citizen, was filed according to law on Saturday to be voted for at the city election: For mayor, R. E. Burnside; for councilmen, A. W. Wilson and J. H. Brady; for assessor, E. C. Avery; for chief of police, S. A. Prince; for treasurer, Henry Harting; for recorder and ex-officio auditor, C. H. McLane.

The Journal-Miner is the recipient, from Geo. Wooster, of a very neat little Arizona souvenir in the shape of a framed picture of a Pima tribe. The frame is trimmed with leather. These little souvenirs are made and manufactured by Mr. Wooster and he is enabled to turn them out as rapidly as he can sell them. He sold nearly 200 of them in the city of Phoenix. The frames are made of Arizona cedar and the pictures are various, some being of burros, some of Indians, some of noted buildings, but all of Arizona subjects.

The Yule Tide was very appropriately greeted at the Congregational church yesterday when a large congregation was present at both morning and evening services. The choir rendered several very pleasing Christmas carols in a very pleasing manner. Dr. Long's sermon in the morning dealt very entertainingly on the beautiful and the Christmas message, while in the evening he discoursed upon the uplifting influence of such moral leaders as Socrates, Plato, Aristotle and St. Francis of Assisi.

It is stated that the Santa Fe railroad company, the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the Rock Island railroad company, the Southern Pacific company and other large corporations will be held at the Advent Mission church on Christmas day, viz: Celebration of the Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m. forming prayer, Holy Communion and sermon, at 11 a. m.

Charles H. Lee, a civil engineer formerly of Prescott, was married in San Francisco December 12. In writing to a friend here of the affair Mr. Lee failed to give the name of the fortunate young lady in the case. The Journal-Miner congratulates Mr. Lee and his bride and hopes to see them in Prescott soon.

Our morning contemporary after daily measuring the Journal-Miner has come to the conclusion that it is too large to suit our M. C. At least that is what is to be inferred from its jealous sneers.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Judge R. E. Sloan returned yesterday from his visit east.

J. B. Tomlinson returned last evening from a business trip east in connection with the Yaeger Canyon Copper company.

The Prescott orchestra will play at Miss Thew's entertainment next Monday evening.

McCoy Brothers have incorporated under the name of "F. G. McCoy Co." and will engage in the wholesale whiskey business.

United States Marshal McCord came up from Phoenix on yesterday's train on official business.

It is expected that the cable steamer Silverton will reach Hopland in time to send a Christmas message to the main land.

The Eagles of Prescott will give a high jinks on Thursday evening which promises to be a very interesting number.

Joe Mulhatten, the boss liar of the present generation is in jail as a common drunk in Jeffersonville, Indiana.

Joseph served a short season in the Arizona insane asylum, his insanity being caused by strong drink.

Joe Mulhatten has a would-be "half brother" in Arizona for writing "half headed" fake stories. They sound very commonplace however alongside of Joseph's well written plausible lies. This would-be competitor evidently does not use the same brand of booze as Mulhatten.

Several Finkeys who were stabbed several weeks ago by Manuel Herrera, a tramp, died yesterday evening from the effects of the stab wounds.

Against Herrera has been charged to murder. His examination is set for Tuesday the 23rd inst.

The Grand Jury will have charge of the funeral of a deceased having been a member of that order. The services will be held at Logan's undertaking parlors.

W. R. Johnston, a missionary on the Navajo Indian reservation, conferred with Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones in Washington recently regarding the condition of the Navajo. He says that the great drought which has existed in the Navajo country during the past six years has almost impoverished them. Indians, and it is impossible for them to carry on under the present conditions the sheep business in which they have been engaged. He asked the government assistance, otherwise than financial, to show the Indians how to help themselves.

The West Prescott Methodist Sunday school has prepared an entertaining program of responsive reading, recitation and song. A special feature will be a song by the little ones. Mr. Chas. Travis will sing a solo, "The Faithful Shepherd," as a prelude to the presentation of "The Shepherd's Vision" in a realistic tableau.

These exercises will be rendered at their Christmas tree entertainment at the West Prescott Methodist church Wednesday evening. Santa Claus will appear at 7:30 and the program will begin at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

The examination of W. F. Grove and J. M. Sharp on the charge of attempting to defraud the Val Verde Copper company is set for tomorrow.

These men appear in Monday's Journal-Miner as having been arrested in La Junta, Colo. Under Sheriff A. A. Johns and returned to Prescott yesterday.

There is a signed statute in Arizona covering crimes such as alleged against these men. It is claimed that they shipped ore from a claim in Maple Gulch to the Val Verde smelter and by mixing gold with the sample succeeded in raising the assay value over $2000 and receiving that amount over the real value of the ore. Both men claim that they are innocent of the charge. Their bonds pending the examination has been fixed at $1000.

"The Virginian" at the opera house tonight.

H. C. Kruger is in town from the Prudential Copper company's mines.

Arthur S. Cook's condition at McCabe is reported considerably better.

S. M. Griffith left today for his home in Kansas City.

"The Virginian," at the opera house tonight.

Do not fail to see "The Virginian" at the opera house tonight.

Geo. O. Young was a passenger on this morning's north bound train.

Read the sad and pathetic poem about the young man who was "tempted and fell."

The case of Ida M. Hall vs. Ed. Hall, for divorce, is being tried before Judge Sloan this afternoon.

County Sheriff Bob Walker, of Coconino county, was a passenger on this morning's north bound train.

Mrs. E. S. Clark and her three children left this morning for Albuquerque to spend the holidays with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. Cornish and wife.

The death list of the railroad collision at Byron, California, on Saturday night now numbers twenty-five, several having died since the accident.

Arizona Sunshine is the name of a new illustrated publication recently issued in Phoenix by the ladies of the Christian church. Mrs. H. W. Bagby, wife of the pastor of the church, is the editor of the paper.

The make-up man yesterday made quite a mix up in the programs of two entertainments, getting the headings transposed. While the body of the program was self explanatory, the heads to them were placed in awkward situations.

A. C. McQueen came up from Phoenix this morning. His son, Donald McQueen, passed through on the same train bound for California to spend the holidays.

O. R. Symes, connected with a prominent Kansas investment company, arrived in Prescott yesterday to look over mining resources of this section with a view of making some mining investments.

Christmas eve at midnight solemn High Mass will be celebrated at the church of the Sacred Heart, Father Quigley, rector. The Mass will be offered by St. Hubert's Mass by Father "Noel" will be sung at the offertory by Mrs. E. L. Morrison.

A. W. Simpson, postmaster at Williams. He was taken to the insane asylum at Phoenix Sunday in what is considered a hopeless condition. His bondsmen have taken charge of the postoffice and in going over his accounts have found an enormous sum of about $1300. His friends are satisfied that this has occurred on account of his mental condition, as he has always borne a splendid reputation, known for his integrity and honesty, and no defalcation could have occurred with him in his right mind.

The Kraus-Taylor company played its first Christmas tree exercises at a fair audience and gave very good satisfaction. The play was "A True Kautzman." It closed with a very interesting plot and was well acted by the company. The between-act specialties consisting of singing and dancing and exhibition of pictures, were particularly good and pleasing to the audience. A good week's business is in prospect.

Tomorrow night will be Eagles' night, when members of that order are expected to be present in large numbers.

J. C. Taylor the leading man, is a splendid actor and he is supported by a good company.

E. C. Foreman, who worked in the office for a few weeks after the year and a half ago, going from here to Tucson where he worked in a similar position died in that city November 25. He came to Arizona suffering with consumption and while his life was somewhat prolonged by his coming here the disease had taken too strong a hold on his system to be permanently checked. Mr. Foreman was a man of excellent habits. He had many friends in Prescott who would be glad to learn of his death.

PRESCOTT AS A HEALTH RESORT.

(Communicated.)

It is a broad statement, but none the less true, that Prescott is known to the world as a health resort, and stands pre-eminent among such resorts for those seeking a betterment and final restoration of their physical forces.

Its location has many advantages over other sections of the country when viewed from points that have their peculiar merits in the eyes of diversified invalids. Being situated at medium elevation and between parallels in moderate-tempered zones, there is no place its superior and few of its standard in the character of weather assured. For eight months, yes, ten months, of each year, Prescott basks in the brightest of sunshine and the while, during the heated term that prostrates all nature and the human race about us, we are ever refreshed and invigorated by the mountain breezes that temper old Sol's fervid rays. The question so often comes to us: Who are the invalids? Where do they keep themselves? For a more rugged class of people is seldom seen anywhere.

Having attained this reputation, are the citizens going to be satisfied and allow it to form the apex of their ambition? Does the invalid only require pure air and bread? Do his wants are appeased from the same sources? Without answer to the question, we say emphatically: No! The soul in man aspires to greater emoluments, and seeks environments that are as lusty, tangible and necessary to the full enjoyment of life as the food and condiments. The lives that come among us, sick, weary and exhausted are woefully disappointed by the conditions of their appointed in our airy-stuff mania. They require relishes; a something to please the eye and tickle the palate and electrify the senses, all at one and same time. Soup without the savour of salt fits to the stomach as harmoniously as a damp sock in a new shoe. There is a feeling that the disreputable must be extricated as speedily as possible. Likewise a season without pungent attractions, in a town or city of hospitable repute. "There's nothing doing; let's get out as quickly as possible," is already the complaint of the sojourner. There are devious ways for obtaining any such continuities. The question arises however, will any of them find so much favor as to reach adoption.

Depleted physical man, while recuperating by the inhalation of ethereal ozone, requires means for diverting the mind from thoughts of self and the things possible. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott that are paramount.

People living outside our city limits, in the States, for instance, have pictured Prescott as near to a paradise as it is possible for any earthly habitation to present. The sphere of his thought is circumscribed to self, and it therefore behooves his physician—and we all are his physicians from a hospitable view-point—to prescribe absolute abandonment of the thought of self. He must relax the tension of mind, that his illness has enforced. In order to accomplish this task and launch the mind upon calmer seas, duties evolve upon the citizens of Prescott